We are most happy to say that Mr. James Wood reached his 95th birthday on Wednesday, March 30, still in good health, spirits and able to enjoy a full day with his many friends.

As usual he was up bright and early and when he had occasion to call on him at 10 a.m. he was busily engaged in making a large quantity of dainty ham sandwiches and getting ready to receive the guests who would call during the afternoon and evening.

Mrs. A. C. Milne came early in the afternoon and served tea, sandwiches and birthday cake, cookies, etc., for Mr. Wood while he chatted with his callers and admired his cards and gifts.

Treating Cattle for Warbles

Cattlemen in Alberta take large losses every year because of warbles. Some estimates of loss are $5.00 per head for infested animals. Most of this loss can be prevented by treating cattle with warble powder.

The killing agent in this powder is usually derris or rotenone. Follow the directions on the container when treating. Animals can be treated by hand, using a stiff brush to scrub the liquid or powder. The insecticide must get into the holes in the skin and onto the grubs to kill them.

A power sprayer with pressure of at least 300 lbs. per square inch is almost a necessity if large numbers of cattle are to be treated.

Proper treatment should begin when the first warbles are nearly ready to emerge and should be repeated in three weeks to a month in order to be really effective.

Hog Production

Figures just recently released show that the quality of Alberta pigs is still slipping. Last year only about 18 percent of pigs sold in Alberta were in the A grade. This is not a happy state of affairs because as price of hogs goes down it becomes more and more important to get high grades in order to make the best possible profit.

The two main reasons for poor grades are 1. Low quality breeding stock, and 2. Failing to market pigs at the correct weight.

If you start out with good bacon type breeding stock and market your pigs at 200 to 210 pounds, it is not hard to sell over 50 percent grade A pigs.

Seed Supplies

Time is getting short. Anyone who is planning to use his own seed this spring should be very sure that it will grow. This is particularly true of Oats and Barley. Anyone planning to buy his seed Oats or Barley should get them now as supplies of good seed are getting harder to find all the time. Remember it is still possible to over deliver up to 400 bushels over your quota to buy up to 150 bushels of registered or certified seed. Any type of grain can be sold as you do not have to deliver the same kind of grain as you buy.

Celebrate Birthday March 19

A somewhat unique occasion was quietly observed in Irma this week, being the mutual birthday of two cousins, Frank Warren Kirby and Frank Keith Coffin. They were both born on the 19th of March, the former 19 years before the latter. Their mothers were sisters and both the boys were named for their maternal grandfather, Frank Worthing. Both were volunteer soldiers and they served in the Canadian Air Force in World War I and II respectively. A family gathering of the few relations now resident in Irma was held at the home of Mrs. Parke. It was a day of heart stirring memories, both for the happy present of our local Legion president and of memorial tribute to the lad who departed this life not long after his return to plain citizenry.

Southern Sayings

We extend our sincerest sympathy to Mark Allred and his family in the tragic death of his brother.

We will have the opportunity of seeing our friends and neighbors again on April 6. Why? Because that is the date of Mrs. Reber's sale at the farm.

Card of Thanks

I wish to express my most sincere thanks to my many friends for the lovely cards, fruit, etc., sent to me during my illness in hospital and since my return home. Also to all those who have so kindly come to visit me.

Always Dependable

Home Workshop

Some birds are so sociable that they like to make nests in a community house. This miniature New England meeting house has twelve compartments for nests is sure to attract purple martins and swallows. These summer visitors more than pay their way by destroying countless insects. This house should be set atop a post at least ten feet from the ground and well apart from trees or buildings. I have found that a barrier against cats and squirrels placed around the post a couple of feet below the house is necessary to attract martins. Pattern 340 is in full detail with each step in cutting and assembling in perspective sketches. Price $3c. A packet of patterns for a wide variety of bird houses will be postpaid for $1.50.

No fancy tools are necessary to make this dressing table and stool. With a power saw the pieces are ripped out in a jiffy. This is a handy set. Just lift the top and there are the toilet things in place with a good-size mirror. Nest for an unfurnished modern bedroom that doubles as a guest room. The pattern illustrates each step to guide you in cutting out the pieces and assembling. A list of all materials that are used in this set comes with pattern 373 which is $5c per copy, or enclose $1.50 and receive a packet of five standard size patterns for making Useful Tables and Stands in addition to the design shown in the sketch.

Cyanide pills cutting down wolf predators

VANCOUVER.—Alford Harrison carries death in both hands but it means life to the caribou, moose and deer population of British Columbia. One morning recently Harrison stepped from his cabin in northern B.C. to find 20 pairs of savage eyes fixed on him from the surface of Beaver Lake.

He was used to timber wolves, but not this many and not so bold. A rifle could get two or three but he was after bigger things. He turned to the cabin and the pack vanished.

Hoping against hope, Harrison scattered his other weapon, cyanide pills, on the ice although he didn't expect the predators to return.

Next morning, the bodies of 17 wolves, enough to destroy a herd of caribou, lay stiff on the frozen surface.

It brought the number of wolves exterminated in that six-month period to 105—a good showing for one man.

On one trip to Babine Lake, he brought in 10 wolves from a pack of 12 including the first white-faced wolf he ever captured. As many as five moose in a radius of nine miles have been found on Ootsa lake, dragged down on the ice by wolves. Some of the carcasses were picked clean while others were left to be finished by others, the wolves ignoring their kill.

There are others like Alford Harrison in B.C. and there lies the reason for an increasing game population.

GOOD AMBASSADORS

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask.—United States hunters using dogs for hunting upland game birds are "ambassadors of goodwill," says Saskatchewan game commissioner E. L. Paynter. They use the same grounds each year and establish good relations with land owners, he added.

A full-legged hurricane will generate more energy than 1,000 atom bombs exploded simultaneously.

The name of Haiti means "Highland." The country is very mountainous.

Livestock great food converters

In an address before the 35th annual meeting of the Council of Canadian Meat Packers in Hamilton, H. R. Davison, vice-president of the American Meat Institute, dramatically emphasized the role which the livestock industry fills in converting large quantities of bulky cereals and roughages into concentrated, high-quality protein.

Mr. Davison pointed out that the capacity of the average human stomach is only about 40 fluid ounces, which is a basic limiting factor in the demand for food. But there is a wide range in the kind and quality of food with which it may be filled.

For example, if a family of two adults and two children is stocked with a weekend supply (24 meals) of protective foods, including plenty of high quality animal products, it would contain the equivalent of 280 pounds of corn, in addition to the fruits, vegetables and cereals included in the menu.

The daily corn equivalent of a good high-protein diet, consisting of meat, milk and eggs, is figured at about 35 pounds. Since animals are generally not fed corn alone, a person on a good diet probably would consume the equivalent of 10 pounds of grain and 50 pounds of hay per day.

A serving of bacon and eggs for breakfast is equivalent to four pounds of corn, or if in the form of corn meal mush, two gallons. A steak for dinner, on the other hand, would be the much more palatable equivalent of 6 pounds of corn, 3 1/2 pounds of hay and 1/2 pound of protein supplement. Or a serving of pork chops would be the equivalent of 3.6 pounds of corn, 0.4 pounds of protein supplement and 1.0 pounds of legume forage.

Today there exists a vast and expanding market for protective foods, among which meat and other livestock products rank high. To supply that market, animal agriculture will have to expand and increase in efficiency, which basically means an expansion in the production of grain and grass—the raw material for an optimum high-protein diet.

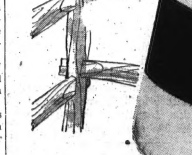

SMILE OF THE WEEK

Half an hour later the old man rose to get off.

Eight Canadian registered bulls sold to Spain

Eight Canadian registered bulls were recently sold to Spain, reports B. T. Rankin, commercial secretary for Canada at Madrid. This sale has nothing to do with bull rings—these bulls are to be distributed to artificial insemination centres where the best milk-producing cattle are to be found. At the same time, they will be used to produce new stock of this type with a high milk-production record for breeding purposes.

The bulls were shipped by air—the first time that cattle have ever been flown to Spain. Their arrival proved to be front-page news and each daily in Madrid carried pictures and write-ups. It is hoped that Canada will continue to participate in this and other plans to revolutionize Spanish agriculture.

Kitchen Meditations

By JANE DALE

A BOY'S SCHEMING

Sure I like chocolate cake's lemon pie; dough-nuts and cookies too; I like most every sort of secret, some better'n most, that's true. I like home-made bread and butter—Oh, boy! what a taste! Spread thick with golden syrup. I'll say there is no waste!

I like to catch the syrup as it runs through the bread; I like it best each evening when I'm spooned to go to bed. I eat each bit so carefully and catch each golden drop. Mother scolds about me dawdling; she thinks I'll never stop.

My fingers get so sticky I have to wash again, you see. So that's why I like bread'n syrup—it's a sort of strategy!

Beat in 4 lbs. melted shortening. Work in 3 c. more once-sifted bread flour. Knead until smooth and elastic; place in greased bowl and brush top with melted butter or shortening. Cover and set in warm place, free from draft. Let rise until doubled in bulk. Punch dough down in bowl, cover and let rise again until nearly doubled. Punch down dough and roll out, half at a time, into a rectangle a scant 1/2" thick; lift dough, cover with cloth and let rest 5 min. Brush with melted butter or shortening; cut into strips 1/2" wide. Tie strips together; cut into 1/2" pieces. Place cut-side up in greased muffin pans; squeeze a little at top. Cover and let rise until doubled in bulk. Bake in hot oven, 400°, 15-20 min.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY

The double play

By JOHN T. KIERAN

I WAS a reporter at the time. And when I read about "The Man" passing in an eastern city last it brought all those days back to me. At that time he wasn't the overlord of the underworld he later became, being then a small operator. Nurdy, his real name was, but when he got to the top he became known simply as "The Man." And everyone knew who he meant. He was it. Ruthless, brainy, he controlled rackete life a yardmaster controls traffic.

I was standing near him, the two of us alone in a tiny speakeasy one night when Heely, a henchman, rushed in, his black eyes snapping. "Chief, they got another lead! They took every drop."

Nurdy's face flamed. "The second week? What's wrong with this mob? Didn't they even fight back?"

"It would have been lead for 'em if they did. They were outnumbered. The hi-jackers had the drop on 'em before they knew what it was all about. Can't blame the boys too much. You know what resistance would mean."

"Blame 'em," Nurdy growled. "Blame 'em for being the punks they are?" He turned to me, not caring who overheard his words or that I was a newspaper man. "If I could get twelve fast, smart guys I could make 'em all rich in six months. But here I've lost six more this week than I'll make in two. But punks or not, Heely, turning to the other, 'Someone is selling us out. Those jackers pull their stuff too neatly not to."

have been tipped; they know just when and where to do it. Who was drivin' that truck?"

"Andrea. They came out of a side road at him onto that narrow slab pavement near Farmingham and forced him into the ditch. He just got back with the empty truck."

"Andrea, that dumb egg!—But you know, lately I've been thinkin' he ain't half as dumb as he is. I think he's the guy that's sellin' out on us. How did those gorillas know just when and where he was comin' along at the one place where they could easily ditch him?"

"I don't know. And this is the first truck we've sent over since he's playin' us double he's gonna go along on a one-way. Listen. You fry to sound him out. Try to get him to double-cross the gang. If he proves to be what we think he is—well, I always said there is only one way to treat a guy like that."

"I'll get the straight on him, all right," Heely declared.

Nurdy thought for a moment. "I've got a truckload going over to Easton tonight. You couldn't have a better opportunity to try out your little scheme. You and him take it out—even if you come back alone."

I sidled out of the place at that. But of course it was on my beat and I was in the next day. And from what I picked up here is what happened after Nurdy and Heely had been talking. Why didn't I go to the police, you ask? Why should I? And besides, what did I have, really? But anyone here's the way I got it.

That night Heely and Andrea left with a load in a truck that apparently carried two farmers anxious to get their load of crated chickens to market early. As they went along Heely talked freely to the taciturn Andrea, trying to draw him out. Was the fellow suspicious?

After they were more than half way to Easton he exclaimed: "Say, I don't blame them hi-jackers. Man! there's a lot of money in it, gettin' the stuff for nothin'—and selling it for regular prices."

"Uh huh."

"Listen," confidentially. "Somebody would make money by hi-jacking this car right now. I, Mr'n we make in months work in' for Nurdy."

"Nurdy's a hard guy."

"Oh—he's dumb. Say, you and me could make a good haul by ditchin' this stuff and tellin' Nurdy we're hi-jacked. We would shoot a few holes in the truck and he'd never know it wasn't a real job."

"Huh?"

"Sure! We could sell it later. I've got friends who'd give good prices for it in a minute. Heely looked at the other in the dim light as they drove along.

"Nurdy wouldn't believe it," Andrea said finally.

Heely laughed. "How's he gonna help himself? Isn't it happenin' every night?"

"Let's get this straight. You want to hide the stuff and say we're hi-jacked. Then we'll come back for the stuff later and sell it?"

"That's the story!"

"How do you know those people will buy it from us without tellin' Nurdy what we done?"

Heely chuckled. "Haven't I sold 'em enough stuff before this to know they won't let out a word about it?"

Howe to discuss wheat

OTTAWA.—The Right Hon. C. D. Howe, minister of Trade and Commerce and minister of Defence Production, has accepted invitations from the Governments of Australia and New Zealand to visit their respective countries next April. Mr. Howe will leave Canada on April 8, travelling by Canadian Pacific Airlines from Vancouver to Honolulu, Fiji and Sydney, New South Wales.

Mr. Howe, through whom The Canadian Wheat Board reports to parliament, will discuss wheat marketing arrangements with the appropriate authorities in Australia, and trade in general with the Australian and New Zealand ministers concerned. Besides wheat, he will visit something of the sugar, dried fruit, wool, cattle, coal and steel industries, hydro-electric installations and secondary industries in the Commonwealth. He also hopes to meet a number of leading businessmen in both countries.

Mr. Howe will arrive in Christchurch, New Zealand, on April 26, where he will visit woolen mills and railway shops. After a visit to Wellington, where he will be tendered a state luncheon by the New Zealand Government, and a reception by the Associated Chambers of Commerce of New Zealand, Mr. Howe will visit the thermal regions and a new pulp and paper mill. Two days will be spent in Auckland before his departure on May 2 by Canadian Pacific Airlines for Fiji and Honolulu en route home to Vancouver.

Mr. Howe will be accompanied by Wm. Frederick Boyd, deputy minister of Trade and Commerce, who was Canadian Government Trade Commissioner in New Zealand from 1939-1941, and has subsequently visited both Australia and New Zealand in his present capacity.

Today is yesterday's pupil.

Annual convention 4-H council said most successful held

Sunlit skies and brisk, cool weather greeted the 120 delegates to the 24th annual convention of the Canadian Council on 4-H clubs in Toronto, March 7 to 9. The sunny and brisk atmosphere extended into the various sessions on the 10th, the last day of the convention, as the delegates, president E. S. Manning and vice-president, R. G. Bennett, director of extension, Ontario department of Agriculture was elected president and D. C. Foster, director, extension service, Manitoba department of Agriculture, was elected vice-president. Elected as members of the executive committee are: E. S. Manning and R. G. Bennett, Toronto; D. C. Foster, Winnipeg; G. S. Black, Edmonton; L. C. Roy, Toronto; E. F. Pineau, Ottawa; J. E. McArthur, Belleville and C. A. Douglas, Truro, N.S.

Appointed chairman of the various standing committees were: Home economics, Miss Florence Eadie, Toronto; membership and finance, Earle S. Manning, Toronto; national club week, Frank E. Wolff, Toronto; policy, George S. Black, Edmonton; leadership, Miss Echo Lidster, Victoria; publicity, L. C. Roy, Toronto.

Premier Leslie Frost was guest speaker at a banquet tendered the delegates by the province of Ontario. He pointed out that in a fast growing province like Ontario and a rapidly expanding country like Canada there were many complex problems but that a better understanding of the other fellow's problems often made your own easier to solve or that with mutual understanding some problems almost disappear.

Mr. Frost told the Council members that the work they were doing with 4-H club members was helping to build better citizens, helping to broaden the outlook of the boys and girls who will be tomorrow's leaders and that improved understanding thus established will make future problems that much easier to solve.

The most successful convention in the 24 year history of the Council ended with a meeting of the new board of directors at which R. G. Bennett, associate president, said that the convention had been a most successful one and that the delegates had done a great deal of work in a very short time.

GARDEN NOTES

Planting too deep, too close common gardening mistakes

Planting too deep, too close, and too soon, are probably the most common mistakes in gardening. One should forget all about the tiny seeds one is sowing and think only of the size of the plants those tiny seeds will grow.

Even little fellows, like alyssum or portulaca, or leaf lettuce and green onions, require some space to develop properly. The safe rule is about at least half as much space between plants as they will be high when full grown. With small flowers and vegetables this means at least a couple of inches between and with zinnias, peas, beans, etc., at least four to six inches. With dahlias and corn this should be 12 to 18 inches.

The rule for depth is three times the diameter of the seed or root planted. This means that really tiny seeds should be merely pressed in the soil while such things as beans and peas should be covered about an inch deep. The bulbs or roots of tall flowers like gladioli and dahlias should go down from six to 12 inches.

Good tools. Gardening does not require expensive equipment. But it will be easier with a few special tools. With most of this hand equipment it is advisable to have long handles so that one does not have to stoop. It is surprising how accurate and quickly one can do thinning and weeding of even tiny stuff with a long handled sharp hoe or cultivator provided the same is narrow or comes to a point.

The D-shaped ditch hoes are excellent things for killing weeds and loosening up the top soil, but one must be careful in using them too close to sprouting vegetables and flowers. There are all sorts of tiny rakes, trowels and cultivators. With any of this equipment, the work will be cut in two if the edges are kept sharp and clean. An old file will be handy.

The present gardening is supposed to be always in a hurry but when it comes to gardening they take things more slowly than their grandfathers did. And rightly so. Instead of planting the whole garden on the first fine day, they plant gradually and they plan to have a succession of bloom and a succession of flowers all through the summer and fall. But while it is not advisable to rush things everyone with any interest in this fascinating hobby wants to have a few extra early things too.

When you know it's there for keeps, it sinks down in a corner. And it never stirs or peeps. That typographical error—Too small for human eyes. Till the ink is on the paper. ALBERTA'S DEPARTMENT OF HIGHWAYS

Building and improving Alberta's roads and highways is the special field of public responsibility assigned the Alberta Highways Department.

Its authority extends along 85,000 miles of highways and roads, a system that is being extended and improved each year. This network of roads, whose total length is more than three times the earth's diameter, demands the expenditure of large sums of money for travelling, hard-surfacing, bridging, widening, and general maintenance. Highways expenditure is such an important part of government spending in Alberta that almost 28 per cent of the 1954-1955 budget was allocated for this purpose.

The Department of Highways consists of seven branches—Surveys, Maintenance, Location, Construction, Bridge, Accounting and Motor Vehicles.

The Location Branch of the Department of Highways selects the locations of new highways and roads while the Surveys Branch surveys the completed location of highways and all roads in Improvement Districts. The Surveys Branch looks after all government-owned land in the Province and administers all acts related to provincial land. The Director of Surveys approves all plans for survey work in Alberta and administers the Pipe Line Act.

Actual construction of highways is under the control of the Construction Branch. This branch stakes out highway locations, purchases gravel, and does all the cross-sectioning, levelling and other work entailed in building a highway.

The Bridge Branch of the Department of Highways builds all highway bridges. Its engineers have been busy during recent years on an expanded program of bridge building. Many bridges that have become inadequate for modern traffic conditions are being replaced with wide, strong and graceful modern bridges. Bridge design is carried out by the branch but construction is distributed between private contractors, working under the branch's supervision, and the branch's own bridge building crews.

Costs of each type of highway, bridge and ferry are assembled by the Accounting Branch while the Maintenance Branch maintains all main highways, awards grants to municipal districts and improvement districts for road work, and supervises all work done under these grants. Municipal governments now receive approximately $5,000,000 a year in road grants.

The Motor Vehicles Branch contains the Highway Traffic Board and the former Motor Vehicles Branch, until recently a part of the Provincial Secretary's Department. All truck and car licences, drivers' tests, passenger car safety tests, accident and financial responsibility and other duties associated with the use of roads and highways by the public come under its attention. The Highway Traffic Board controls truck and bus traffic and imposes road bans during the spring periods when roads are most prone to damage.

Report From the Legislative Halls

By Donald F. Smith

EDMONTON—The seriousness with which the Alberta government views the collapse of negotiations between the federal government and Trans-Canada Pipe Line Ltd. on the financing of a natural gas pipeline from Alberta to the east was evident in the legislature last week.

It was expressed by Premier Manning during a two and three-quarter hour debate which saw spokesmen for Liberal, CCF and Progressive—Conservative parties stating their views and though no conclusion resulted, the report was an announcement that the cabinet is considering adjourning the house when its current business is ended.

This would be instead of prorogation and would allow the government to call a quick sitting after talks with the federal government, the pipeline company and gas producers.

Mr. Manning's statement was: "The collapse of the negotiations is extremely serious to Alberta and, to a lesser extent, to the whole of Canada. The responsibility on Alberta is to see to it, in the light of these happenings, that we do whatever is the best and most constructive to resolve the problem which confronts us, at the earliest possible date, and in the best interests of Alberta and Canada."

CCF leader Elmer E. Roper contended an American oil company, which would be the largest single supplier of Alberta gas to the Trans-Canada line, caused the failure of the Ottawa negotiations.

After the federal government refused to guarantee payment of interest on the company's bonds in the early years of development, the government Bank of Canada offered to put up money, if the company would allow the bank to purchase $5 million worth of common shares and $40 million worth of debentures which could be converted into common stock.

Trans-Canada turned down the offer not because it was not prepared to accept it, Mr. Roper claimed, but because the American company refused to supply gas to a company over which the Canadian government might exercise some control.

That an American company could refuse to supply Canadian gas for another part of Canada was outrageous to the CCF leader, and another indication Canada is becoming an economic colony of the U.S. With control over its own natural resources, he maintained, it is up to Alberta to tell the American company "where to get off." If it is not prepared to deliver gas on the terms Ottawa asks to protect Canadian taxpayers, it should let the government do it, he said.

Mr. Manning said he and Trans-Canada officials had checked and could find no producer who was opposed to the government's requiring security for guaranteeing the bonds but he added, the bank's proposal went further. In effect, he said, the federal government would be coming in the back door to control the line by virtue of the vast amount of voting stock the bank would have.

If the government wants control, let them be frank about it, said the premier. If the producers know whether the company is a private or a crown corporation they would be prepared to deliver gas to the line but they would not, if the status of the company is confused.

Foremost, according to Premier Manning, is that the producers in Alberta obtain an immediate market for the vast gas reserves. J. Harper Prowse, Liberal leader of the opposition, took a less hurried view.

The far-larger gas reserves of Texas, he maintained, are fled up long-range contracts that will see that state importing gas from beyond its boundaries in 10 years, while still exporting its own to other areas. He defended the federal government's demand that the eastern line follow an all-Canadian route, stating gas would help develop the vast undeveloped regions through which it will pass.

He opposed shipping to the U.S., which he said is running

Arranging For Sportsmen's Dinner

(From The Viking News)

It is quite probable that one of those popular sportsmen's dinners will be held in the Legion Hall in the near future, when pictures of the Grey Cup football finals will be shown, and representatives from all sports are expected to be present such as John Ducey, the Edmonton baseball promoter, Rollie Miles, of football fame, Matt Baldwin, Briar curling champ of 1954, and some golfer of note. These dinners have been held in various towns in the province and have proven very popular. More details in future issues of this paper.

Mr. Alwyn Whidden was a city visitor during the week.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Mike Rawluk on the birth of their son at Killam hospital. There will be a special Easter Service in Jarrow United church on Easter Sunday, April 10 at 3 p.m.

"IMPROPER GAS VENTING can be DANGEROUS

Make the 5 POINT SAFETY CHECK in Your Home Today... and Know You're Safe!"

"There have been several recent reports of carbon monoxide fumes in homes in Edmonton and district. These fumes result from improper venting of gas appliances, and they can be dangerous. The following five point safety check will help make YOUR home safe. Check today—and be sure your venting is safe."

—Stated by Mr. Jack Booth, Fire Marshal, City of Edmonton.

Make Your Own 5 Point Safety Check Today

- Check Your Chimney:
If it's blocked in any way you're not getting proper venting. Hold a hand mirror inside the chimney at the clean-out opening or at the lowest vent pipe connection. Hold the mirror at the angle shown in the drawing at right. You should get reflected light if your chimney is clear of obstructions.
- Check Vent Pipes:
Pipes leading from appliances to your chimney should be in sound condition, all joints fitting snugly, well supported, free from obstructions and there should be no damper on these pipes.
- Check Chimney Connections:
Where vent pipes run into the chimney make sure they fit snugly—but do not run so far into the chimney that they block the chimney passage.
- Check Appliances:
City By-laws require that all gas appliances must be vented to the outside atmosphere, with the exception of refrigerators and ranges approved for use without vent pipes.
- Check for Unpleasant Odors:
Smarting of the eyes and nose irritation is an indication of fumes in your house.

Make this five point test today—do not try to repair any trouble spots yourself—call your local plumber, tin-smith or gas-fitter, he is qualified to do a proper repair job.

A Word From Your Gas Company

This year accidents resulting from gas fumes involving 18 persons have been reported to our office. Two of these cases were fatal. Care and attention on the part of the home owner would have obviated some of these and might have obviated them all. It is not the natural gas that causes these accidents—it is the products of incomplete combustion. Normally the products of combustion of fuel are carbon dioxide, water vapor, oxygen and nitrogen, all harmless. But if the chimney or a vent pipe to the chimney, is blocked or partially blocked, the heating equipment may produce poisonous carbon monoxide which is spilled into the occupied space with possible harmful effects to the occupants. It is important that left-over gases get a chance to escape to the outside atmosphere, and we urge you to make the above safety check in your own home so that you can continue to enjoy Natural Gas with safety.

SPORT STUFF

(From The Viking News)

(A fan's birds eye view of the final semi-final playoff between the Gas Kings and Vermilion Tigers, poetically speaking.)

A REFEREE'S GAME

The game was in Vermilion. A sixth one had to be played. Each team was out to win it. To stay in the play.

The arena was loaded. The time was half-past eight. Two referees skated out. To referee the game.

And then came along the players. They got their cheers and boos. And everybody quietened. To see what two referees would do.

The game then got started. Both teams got down to play. It really was a fast one. The referees couldn't keep out of the way.

The Gas Kings started scoring. It looked like they were having luck. But one referee didn't think so. He put the coach off.

But the Gas Kings kept playing. And held the Tigers down. But Dunnigan got a major. And the coach got two minutes more.

Now what did he get that for. No one will ever know. But it gave the Tigers. A chance to really go.

Then Masson got a major. The referee got in the road. It gave the Tigers a chance. To win their game at home.

We still think the Gas Kings Should have won the game. But it is hard to do it. When the referee gets in the way.

Some people say the Gas Kings Are a very rough lot. But we don't think so. They are really good with the puck.

So better luck next season. And hope the referees change. And we will be with you. To see you win a game.

And when you are reading, Just think of this last game. And of how the Gas Kings almost won it. Against a referee and a team. —East Sports Friend.

Not enough fluorine in food for children, doctor states

REGINA. — "The idea that children can get enough fluorine in their daily foods to make fluoridation of water or topical fluoridation unnecessary is very mistaken," Dr. A. E. Chegwinn, director of dental health in the Saskatchewan health department, said recently.

"Proper diet is important in building and maintaining dental health, and by proper diet we mean a balanced food intake and, at the same time, a sharp reduction in the amount of sugar most of us have been consuming. But diet, as modern diets go, is not the complete answer. Unless our foods and our water contains enough natural fluorine to provide our teeth with a sound enamel protective cover, proper dieting alone will not prevent decay."

Dr. Chegwinn referred to a report from Vancouver, where a natural resource fish expert was quoted as telling a conference that "the best natural sources of fluoride are fish and tea; so that by eating enough fish and drinking enough tea one can get the prescribed amount of fluoride to prevent dental caries."

To benefit children "The Vancouver man apparently was not aware that we recommend fluoridation principally so that children's teeth may be given the protective enamel during the growth period. While the effects of healthy and strong teeth are carried into adult life, water fluoridation has very little direct benefit for adults whose teeth were formed on a fluoride deficient diet."

"In this country we are not accustomed to give children tea, especially not in substantial daily rations which would be necessary to provide any appreciable amount of fluoride. Fish is not a popular item of diet in Saskatchewan."

Alberta license plates colored gold on black

Alberta's license plates for the 1955-56 period which opens April 1 will have a color combination of gold on black. This is in special recognition of the province's 50th anniversary since it was created in 1905. This year, Alberta also returns to the two-plate system, one on the front and the other on the rear of the car.

The plates will be made available to issuing agencies as early as possible before March 31 to avoid a rush of car owners and congestion at that time.

Here are the plate color schemes for other provinces this year:

British Columbia — black on yellow.
Manitoba — black on yellow.
New Brunswick — White on green.
Newfoundland — white on black.
Nova Scotia — black on aluminum.
Ontario — white on dark blue.
P.E.I. — green on white.
Quebec — yellow on black.
Saskatchewan — green on white.

Home Workshop

With the exceptions of the American cuckoo which lays its eggs in any honey nest, birds generally demand a special style in architecture. Wrens, for example, prefer small boxes with an entrance no larger than one inch. This set of three houses meets the needs of those mentioned in the sketch. Each design has that quaint look that gives a good bird house its special charm. They are made from 3/4-inch scrap and flexible roofing material or linoleum. Tracing diagrams for saving the three houses in the sketch are complete on pattern 234, price 35¢. This pattern is included in the Bird House Packet which contains full size patterns for making a variety of interesting houses and feeding stations. The price of the packet is $1.50 postpaid.

We have always known that screens are a must for summer. Now modern housing experts insist that storm sash quickly pay for the cost in fuel saving. We have prepared a pattern showing the construction steps for both with the special details for each article illustrated separately. The materials used also vary somewhat so we show the exact dimensions for each in the list of materials. Ordinary hand tools are all that will be needed to do a real craftsman's job and, of course, there is a considerable saving in making them yourself. Send 35¢ for pattern 234 or 50¢ and receive five full standard size patterns including number 234 in the Homestead Improvement packet. Address order to: Department P.P.L., Home Workshop Pattern Service, 4133 West Fifth Avenue, Vancouver, B.C.

Saskatchewan Jubilee Choir ambassadors for province

Saskatchewan's Golden Jubilee Choir of 44 school students will sing in Chicago on May 31 before 25,000 Rotarians from all parts of the world this side of the Iron Curtain, Fred McGuiness, executive director of the Saskatchewan Golden Jubilee Committee, announced recently.

The choir will also sing in Toronto and Ottawa at gatherings of former residents of Saskatchewan, arranged for the first week in June by the University of Saskatchewan Alumni, branches of those cities.

The invitation to sing before the gathering of Rotary International in Chicago results from publicity the choir received by their concert at Minneapolis, St. Paul, Milwaukee and Chicago last summer. Rotary International is celebrating the 50th anniversary of the founding of Rotary this year and invited the Saskatchewan choir because the province is also celebrating its 50th anniversary.

"Our Jubilee choir can certainly be called 'Ambassadors for Saskatchewan,' Mr. Justice E. M.

Frost damage speeded up selection in plant breeding

The place of natural selection in the science of plant breeding was indicated by A. D. McFadden, cerealist at the Lacombe experimental station. Just how useful this type of selection can be is sometimes not appreciated until the results of tests are analysed.

The frost of last fall following the hail damage of 1953 presented a discouraging picture to the plant breeders at Lacombe. It seemed that little good could result from the set-back and that valuable time had been wasted.

The outlook now is much more favorable. Mr. McFadden reports that analysis of the results indicates that the frosts of last fall may have done more good than was realized. Instead of "time wasted," this sweeping destruction of less hardy or less desirable strains may result in a future saving of both time and effort.

From wheat selected two years ago there were 550 single lines in preliminary tests at Lacombe. They were hit severely by frost, and germination ranged all the way from zero to 68 per cent. Combining germination results with bushel weight and kernel development, the plant breeders now have a better opportunity to isolate desirable strains than if the frost had not struck.

The procedure now will be to blow out the light, damaged kernels and retain for increase the early maturing portion of the crop that the frost has naturally selected.

Nature last year did a useful piece of selection work for us, says Mr. McFadden.

NORTHERN FISH

The grayling, found in waters of the Yukon and northern British Columbia, is a distant relative of trout and salmon.

(If a fat thermometer is not available, test fat temperature with a cube of bread—the bread should brown in 60 seconds). Cut 1 pound fillets of any suitable fish into serving sized pieces and sprinkle lightly with salt. Mix and sift into a bowl 1 c. once-sifted pastry flour, 3/4 cup once-sifted all-purpose flour, 1 1/2 tps.

Magic Baking Powder and 1/2 tsp. salt; stir in 1/4 c. very cold water and beat until batter is very smooth. Dip fish pieces in batter and fry in heated shortening, turning once, until golden. Drain thoroughly on absorbent paper, sprinkle lightly with salt and keep hot until all fish has been cooked. Yield—4 servings.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

FAMILY FEATHERS

—By EUNICE CASSIDY HENDRYX

IT WAS one of those "it seemed like a good idea at the time" sort of things—that wasn't. Of all the women who shouldn't try to be too helpful, a young minister's wife headed the list. Marilee Baxter thought she knew that when she and Roger were married. Now she was sure she knew.

A suggestion box? That had been her brilliant idea for finding out just what the congregation might offer as a means for improving the services. She had added, "If a young, handsome, and intelligent young minister lent enough, I'd like to know what more could be suggested."

Suggestions poured in—some amusing; a dozen or more hopelessly antiquated; and a few criticisms, constructive and otherwise.

Today when Roger brought the week's accumulation home he dumped them on the desk, then stalked them in a neat pile. He opened the one on top. "Let's have more of the good old-time religion," he read and added, "I can guess who wrote that one."

Marilee chose a bright blue envelope. "Get some new and peppier hymns." She then turned the note into the air. "Hooray for that one!" she whooped.

"But listen to this." The serious note in Roger's handwriting dignified. "Quit being the peacock in the family. Buy your wife some new togs and let her do a little strutting." His voice heated on the last word; the mean, hateful word.

"Why the—" the "Marilee couldn't think of a term strong enough to express her righteous indignation."

"He's right," Roger contended.

Rats found on 500 farms in Alberta

EDMONTON.—Rats—once missing from Alberta—have invaded about 500 farms in the southeastern corner of the province.

The rodents have infested farms between Medicine Hat and North Saskatchewan river, William Loh, Alberta supervisor of crop protection said recently in an address to sixty farmers attending an agricultural short course.

Since 1951, an eradication program by the province had prevented the rats from moving farther west than 24 miles from the fourth meridian, which forms the Alberta-Saskatchewan boundary.

Mr. Loh said the rats are moving at an average rate of 10 miles a year, but control measures have slowed their advance across Alberta.

If the rodents became established in Alberta, it would cost the province $25,000,000 a year in damages. Rats now cause $275,000,000 damage yearly in Canada.

Over 17 fires each day in Canada

More than 17 fires occur each day in Canada through careless use of electricity, according to officials of the All Canada Insurance Federation. Inadequate wiring and improper use of appliances accounts for more than 10 percent of all fires, with an annual cost of $5,000,000.

Officials of the federation, which represents more than 200 fire, automobile and casualty insurance companies in Canada, said most houses are not wired adequately for all the modern appliances in use today.

The following precautions are recommended by insurance experts:

1. Have a qualified technician install and check all wiring and installations when a new appliance is added.

2. Before buying a large appliance, be sure the house is wired with enough power to operate it.

3. Make sure fuses of correct size are used; fuses too large for the circuit are hazardous.

4. Disconnect lamps and appliances in use when a fuse blows out, and replace fuse with one of proper size, never with unfused or hazardous substitutes.

5. Use only extension cords with recognized seal of approval, and of sufficient size to carry the load required.

6. Never string wires over hooks, under rugs or in exposed places where constant wear and tear will make them dangerous.

7. Disconnect heaters, irons and other appliances with heating units when you leave the house.

8. Never hang laundry or clothing over electric wires.

MUST PASS TEST

EDMONTON.—In a move to reduce accidents involving city-owned vehicles Edmonton officials will require each civic driver to pass safety tests.

Fashions

Half-size flattery

"You represented this district at the past few years' clothes show, Roger. I don't care a fig for that old dog. We know why I haven't rigged myself out in all the latest fashions. First there was the baby. I didn't need anything for months before, and I couldn't have thought about fine clothes for months after he left. Then there was your accident."

"Accident," he scoffed. "A broken little finger."

Marilee added, "I had shock and numerous bruises on various and sundry parts of your anatomy. And in case you don't remember, for the past few years clothes have been high and material poor. It was the patriotic thing to do without new finery. Besides," she hoped, "don't you think it a little bit loyal for me to want you to look your best?"

"Be the peacock of the family?" She struggled out of his arms. "Roger Baxter, if it wasn't for making that old body good as dead, I'd go right down town and buy myself an outfit that would knock your eye out. I may do that any day."

"Good for you, honey. But, clothes or no clothes, you're the loveliest gal in the world. You do just as you please, regardless of anyone's suggestions." He gave her a quick little kiss. "I'm going out and have a bit in the garden."

Hee in the garden. That was the cure-all for any of Roger's troubles.

Peace, indeed! Roger was anything but that, yet all the time she was saving, trying to help him, she was making him appear selfish and vain. What a helper she was.

Maybe she could recognize the handwriting. The note was typed. Nothing to—but yes, there was something. Two capital letters only, but they were decidedly out of line. Roger's typing. The injured little finger never pressed the shift key quite hard enough. "A swank new outfit! You, you..."

GARDEN NOTES

First planting in hot bed or special flats in windows

The very first planting job will not be in the garden outdoors at all, but in the hot bed or special flats placed in bright windows indoors. A hot bed is simply a glass covered yard or so of special rich fine soil, heated with manure, electricity or some other means. Where a lot of plants are to be started the hot bed is the ideal solution and one is advised to get a government bulletin on the subject and follow the directions. Where only a few dozen started plants are needed one can sow seed in line soil in a shallow box and place in a sunny window. Where this is not possible or probable one simply purchases the started plants later on from any seed store or nurserymen.

In this outdoor planting it is important to use fine, rich soil, mixed with a little sand or leaf mould. One should not plant more than a few weeks before it will be safe to transplant outdoors. If these things start to grow too early they will get too tall and spindly to stand the shock of transplanting well. Keep it informal.

The simplest design is usually the most effective in garden layouts and for the non-professional it is also much the easiest. Except, of course, along walls, walls and similar fixed features, it is best to avoid straight lines both in the flower garden and in laying out shrubs and trees.

The experts urge planting in clumps, with two or three or more of each plant in a group. For the centre and foreground nothing is better than a real good lawn. On city lots this may only be a few square yards. The grass sets off the whole layout and it should lead up to the flower garden with possibly shrubs or trees or a vine covered trellis or fence in the background, or as a division between a kitchen or vegetable garden plot at the rear.

Shrubs and flower borders are also used to line driveways and paths. Against the house itself but at least a foot or so in front, one can plant groups of shrubs or taller flowers.

In the flower garden or border the informal or clump planting is continued. Rather than setting out in rigid rows, one should plant groups of various flowers with the little things like alyssum, dwarf nasturtiums, lobelias and so on, in front. Taller things like zinnias, petunias, asters towards the centre and really tall flowers such as cosmos, marigolds and delphiniums at the rear.

It's a great mistake to do any general sowing or cultivating while the ground is the least bit muddy. Heavy soil is injured and later trouble results when it is dug or worked too soon. A good trick is to take a little earth and squeeze it in the hand. If when released it crumbles but does not pack, it is fit for the spade or plow. If it doesn't crumble, it is best to wait a few days longer. There is no gain in rushing the season.

Don't hurry into lighter clothing

In springtime the common cold is just as much of a nuisance as it is at any other time of the year. Perhaps the anxiety to shed warm winter coats and overcoats is irresistible when the days are warmer and this accounts for many of the spring aches and sniffles. It is a good idea not to go into much lighter clothing too soon. If a cold threatens, take the usual precautions of staying indoors in the warm, drinking plenty of citrus fruit juices, milk and water and keeping out of drafts.
